

the MEDICI
ARCHIVE
PROJECT

Florence, 3 July 2026

Praise for Outstanding Scholarship in European Studies

In recognition of his exemplary contribution to the field of European integration over more than three decades, the Early Modern Greek Culture Program at the Medici Archive Project, an independent research institute (Florence/New York), proudly honors Dr. Dimitris N. Chryssochoou, Professor of Theory and Institutions of European Integration at the National & Kapodistrian University of Athens, with the Praise for Outstanding Scholarship in European Studies. Prof. Chryssochoou, a distinguished scholar of stellar academic ethos, has exerted a profound and enduring influence on the theorization of European integration. His research has generated innovative insights into the processes of European polity-building and demos formation. His scholarship embodies and reflects the highest standards of academic excellence and deserves the attention of scholars and practitioners alike. It offers an exceptional intellectual guide to analyzing the nature, evolution, and complexity of European political culture.

Prof. Chryssochoou has made seminal contributions to the conceptualization of the political forms underpinning the European Union's ontology, while advancing a more nuanced understanding of the norms and principles governing collective symbiosis within a structured plurality of co-evolving states and societies. Through his masterful engagement with the theory, institutions, and lexicon of Europe's political order, he has significantly expanded and enriched contemporary intellectual debates on the European project. The Praise for Outstanding Scholarship in European Studies is therefore a most fitting distinction, conferred upon Prof. Chryssochoou in recognition of his unique contribution to the advancement of European Studies and to the study of European integration.

Professor Vasileios Syros

Director | Early Modern Greek Culture Program | The Medici Archive Project